Unto the Populace of Unser Hafen:

From Kevin and Ismenia, Baron and Baroness Unser Hafen:

Greetings:

As I write this the weather outside is blustery and very cold reminding me that winter is soon at hand. And with winter comes the thought that we need to put in bids for events next summer. I know it seems too early, but the earlier we are on the calender the less chance of conflicts regarding scheduling are to arise. So---those aspiring autocrats out there, please see our seneschal, Lord Titus to host an event next summer.

On the 30th of September, His Excellency and I will be hosting a meeting to discuss recognition of archery within our barony. Please attend if you are interested. If you are unable to attend but would like some input, we are available by farspeaker and will be happy to return your calls as soon as we can. His Excellency and myself are appreciative of the added dimension of fun and learning archery has provided for this group and would like, in some fashion, to recognize this effort.

Thank you all for your support of all the demos we have had recently. As always we have been a "star" attraction, bringing many new people in to play the game with us as a direct result of these demos. His Excellency and I feel there is no greater place to be than this Barony, and no better Kingdom in which to live. All of our enthusiasm and expertise in things Medieval shines through in theses demos and both His Excellency and I are very proud.

We remain in Service to the Society,

Kevin

Seneschal's Report for October

Since the Medieval Fair at the Unitarian Church is this month, I decided to address demos in my report. First thing that needs to be said is that to me a demos serves two major functions:

I. (How else did you expect me to number my points?) Public Relations- we show the mundane world the current middle ages and what we are all about.

II. RECRUITMENT!!!!- Especially at a Demo like the Medieval Fair, where the people attending already have an interest in the middle ages. Any person that expresses interest in the SCA and is talked to and not ignored, is a potential member of the SCA at a demo like this. For that matter, anyone you talk to or see at a demo like this is a potential addition to the Barony, so try not to lose them.

These two (II) functions are very closely related in that in both of them require the SCAer to relate to the general public. It is a different atmosphere than an event where mundanes are the rarities. The demo is a exhibition for the public to observe. This means that it is our chance to show the mundane world what the SCA is all about. Okay so now what, as Jafar would say "So what's your point?".

The point that I am trying to make is that it is essential that SCA folks at demos should not avoid the mundanes. Society members should talk to them or direct them to the "designated talkers" in a friendly or cordial manner. Many times there are designated officers or nobility that are there to handle the media and recruiting matters. If this is the case, this does not mean you should shun any contact with the public, it just means that you can direct the gentle to the appropriate Society representative for that demo. Try to do it forsoothly; if you are not into that type of talking, treat the gentle as you would another SCA member you do not know. Just be nice and be yourself if you not a talker and the person is clearly interested in the SCA find a talker or another SCAer that shares the same interest.

If you do want to help contribute to the atmosphere at a demo, first off have fun, do not be afraid to ham up that heralding if you are on the list field announcing fights or be extra chivalrous in the fighting if your in armor - fight for a lady or lord in the crowd, do a really good death or whatever. Challanges (done Chivalrously of course), displaying your artistic endeavours and being willing to talk about them as well, are all ways to make a demo have a positive effect on the public. Finally, do not fear the mundanes!

Well that about wraps it up, remember that we want new people, that means we have to approach them to a limited degree, if they express interest in the SCA. Finally, that also relates to numer I above. It does not hurt our public image when we are receptive to the public.

Remember that we generally all have fun in the Society, so when we have a chance to show off, we should go for it and have a good time!

However, if you are interested in field heraldry please let me know.

Unto the Populace of the Barony of Unser Hafen,
Greetings from the Knight Marshal

Congratulations to all the fighters who fought in the newcomers tourney. There was a lot of good clean fighting. Best of luck to the fighters competing in the Crown Tournament. I encourage everyone to attend as it is always educational to watch the "best of the best" fight.

We have several newcomers who are interested in fighting which is great. When many fighters start out, they get overwhelmed with the hows of fighting and don't really consider the whys of fighting. How to fight is very important, but not nearly as important as why we fight. People who fight because they like to hit someone with a stick are soon going to be disappointed with fighting when either the novelty wears off or they find they can't beat everyone up. The real reason why we fight is that it gives us an opportunity to practice chivalry and honor that we don't have in our mundane lives. The sooner a new fighter realizes this the better it is for everyone. The macho thugs quit and the chivalrous newcomer learns that he is really competing only against himself which helps him t get through the tough period of learning the basics. I would very much appreciate the Populace's support in conveying this fundamental ideal to the new fighters. A simple complement on a chivalrous or honorable act will go a long way towards this end. In addition, when a new fighter is either down about being beat or bragging about being better than someone else, politely stress to them that it doesn't matter if they win or loose as long as they fight with chivalry and honor.

I haven't decided if we will have a fighter practice on October 6 which is Crown weekend. I will make a decision by Populace meeting. My thanks to m'lord Aedan for running fighter practice for me while I recover.

Keep your sword held high,

Galen

Medieval Faire Demo

Unitarian Church, Ft. Collins

October 11-12, 1991

Good Gentles:

On October 11 and 12, the Unitarian Church, 1815 Yorktown (where the Newcomer's Revel was held) will be holding their biannual Medieval Faire. They have gone out of their way to schedule this event so it would not conflict with Crown Tournament, so that we could be there and celebrate our love of times past. All we need do is show up and comport ourselves with the grace and courtly wit that is so characteristic of the folk of this great Barony. Lord Titus and I would like to encourage one and all to attend.

On Friday night, October 11, from 8:00 - 10:00 p.m. a Grand Harvest Ball has been scheduled. We plan to hold a court, with much pomp and circumstance, which will, no doubt, delight the mundane public. The rest of the Ball will be much like our Monday night dance practices. Lady Catriona will teach and lead dances, and our populace will help the mundanes to learn and enjoy this marvelous pastime. Smalls are especially welcome at the Ball, to help the mundane smalls learn and feel comfortable.

On Saturday, October 12, from 10:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m., Lord Titus will be staging a great Tourney, to show all and sundry the great skill and puissance of our mighty warriors. I'd also like to invite our artisans to bring their wares and set up various demonstrations on the greensward around the church. Please bring pavilions as well. We'd like to set up a medieval village with a green in the center upon which performances can take place. There will be many mundane performers from Ft. Collins participating in this faire, but I'd like to encourage all the Performers in our Barony to join in. We have the beautiful Jillana and Katerina to dance, Shéaln O'Néill and Flonghuala to tell stories, and Rhianwen to sing, and many, many more. I hope you will all come and help us create a medieval experience for these poor deprived mundanes.

If you have any questions, please don't hesitate to call me (Mazuna) at 482-7832 (evenings) or 482-0887 (days). Fighters, call Lord Titus at 490-2963 for more information.

SECOND SATURDAY SEWING CIRCLE
AND
BREAD BAKERS GUILD

The October meeting of the SSSC & BBG will take place on October 19th. Yes, that is the Third Saturday, rather than the Second. The guild will meet at my house, 662 Whedbee, beginning shortly after Noon. We will be experimenting with some creative ways to decorate fabrics and costumes, and making Welsh Cakes.

See you there,

Crash space in the lodge consists of 29 beds, with floor space for those of you who prefer sleeping on the floor. The beds will be on a first reserved basis. It's hard to believe, but that time of year has arrived again when the cold winds do blow and the Viking warrior seeks battle once more before the snow (hopefully). It is the time of "The Big Game", so sharpen those axes and swords and prepare to win? the battle and the much sought after trophy. It has also been said there will be the return of the "Viking Pig" (oh groan, that grimy game) no wait, this year we're not going to get dirty. You ask - How? - you'll just have to come see. Of course, there will be Hammer Throw, Match Lighting with Broadsword, Axe Throwing and whatever else Lothar comes up with between now and then. So, come join us for some Viking fun and frivolity before the long, cold winter nights set in.
